Note From Shanna

Five years ago, I was at square one. If you had told me then that I would write a book about loving the Bible, I would have laughed. I would have said to myself, "Nope, that's not me. Somebody else will need to write that book!" But a lot has changed in the last five years. After spending too many years avoiding my Bible, I finally fell in love with it. And you can, too.

Today I don't have all the answers; I don't have it all figured out; I haven't memorized all the verses, and I still can't pronounce all the names. But I can tell you I am learning aily about His beautiful gift, and I can tell you that I'm so thankful to have fallen head over heels in love with His word.

DESCRIPTION

In her 10th book Leighann states, Isn't it incredibly tempting and oh so natural when you find yourself Undone...

Offended...

Wounded...

Legitimately angry...

When somebody's done you wrong...

Or you're in an unimaginable place where God's goodness seems to have left you...

to just jump right in to the pity pool? From inside that pool you can blame others and abdicate all responsibility for the mess you find yourself in.

This book is about getting out of that pool!

HIGHLIGHTS

- Real life examples of how to take responsibility that the reader never has been able to
- Insight in how to make REAL change now!
- Tools to help the reader develop boundaries

About the Author

Leighann McCoy is an author and speaker who helps women develop a never fail faith. She knows an unfailing faith is possible because she's no stranger to the tough stuff in life. Leighann has endured a personal battle with cancer, walked with her daughter through a teen pregnancy, and served for over 25 years as a pastor's wife. That's enough to test anyone's faith! Yet, in those experiences, she wasn't afraid to ask God the hard questions about disappointment, failure, and loss.
